"In Pursuit of Excellence"

Mark Edmondson is a former Super League International who played 11 years as an elite professional. Mark travelled the globe representing UK champions St Helens winning nearly every trophy and title there was to win. Mark also represented his country playing for the England International Team and lived out a boyhood dream to play for the Sydney City Roosters in 2006 under Australian Coach Ricky Stuart.

Mark knows about adversity having had to retire from elite sports in 2007 at the age of 28 due to serious recurring injury and start a new life and career. A highly motivational speaker, Mark is now an elite Personal Coach. His signature presentation "In Pursuit of Excellence" is helping business people and sports people alike ... all around Australia.

Mark combines this knowledge with his personal experiences to help transform organisations and individuals to reach their untapped potential.
